Battle Of Census May Shift
From Congress Into Courts

Senator Tobey, Quiz Foe, Indicates Citizens In Various Parts of U. S. May Ask Injunctions

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 16.—The "battle of the census" may shift from congress and the White House to the courts.

This word came today from the office of Senator Tobey (R-NH), who is leading the fight to prevent census-takers from asking citizens how much money they make.

President Roosevelt, defending the income questions yesterday, accused the senator of inciting the public to violate the law. Tobey charged in turn that, if the President considered an "unauthorized ruling" of the census bureau to be the law of the land, then the people should recall "that such were the tactics used by Hitler in gaining powers never sanctioned by the people."

Mr. Roosevelt's statement was made through his press secretary, Stephen Early, and did not mention Tobey by name.

Charles Tobey, Jr., the senator's son and secretary, told newsmen today that citizens in all parts of the country had written in, suggesting they were willing to seek injunctions against the income questions "as a violation of constitutional rights."

These letters were being studied, young Tobey said, with a view to bringing suits in representative areas throughout the country.

Administration supporters reported increasing indications that Senator Tobey would fall in his effort to obtain senate approval of his resolution declaring that the questions should be eliminated from the coming enumeration. The resolution was approved by the senate commerce committee recently.

Chairman Bailey (D-NC) of this group, who supported the Tobey proposal, said the plan announced by Secretary Hopkins since the committee voted had altered his position.

The commerce department secretary announced that citizens might avoid telling enumerators about their earning by sealing unsigned answers to the income questions in an envelope which would be mailed to census headquarters here. This procedure was designed to meet complaints that many of the 100,000 enumerators might be curious acquaintances or neighbors of those they questioned.

Columbiana Teachers Hear
Story Of Finland's Tragedy

Dorothy Martin and Elizabeth Starr Get Letter from Friend They Met On Bicycle Tour

COLUMBIANA, March 16.—Although peace has come to tiny Finland and war rumblings in that area have ceased for the time being, at least, two Columbiana school teachers, Misses Dorothy Martin and Elizabeth Starr, have received a letter from a friend in Finland, Mrs. Elen North, who graphically describes her life while bombs were raining from the sky.

Met On Bicycle Tour

The Columbiana teachers became acquainted with Mrs. North when they visited Finland two years ago while on a bicycle tour of Europe. The letter follows:

"Dear Miss Martin:
"I am so glad you remembered us so far away. Sympathy is a great thing to be able to stand for things we have at present. You know it is quite impossible to give minute descriptions of happenings here. Just now we all sit in a shelter down in the cellar. Machines have been up all day and many many homes are burning.

"Air raids are very common and we are careful not to lose any lives, as we are so few. But of one thing I am so glad, there are so few hysterics and panic stricken that one can hardly believe it. Now comes that cool part of our nature out and we need it more than ever. Who could ever think when you were here visiting how soon things could change. Even

CAROL REJECTS
NAZI SECURITY

Roumania Says Terms for Border Guarantees are Intolerable

BUCHAREST, March 16.—Sources close to King Carol declared today that Roumania could not pay Germany's price for a "security" offer. They described the terms for proposed Hungarian and Russian border guarantees as "intolerable and impossible of acceptance" and said the plan was doomed unless Germany modified it greatly.

Stiff opposition arose in high government quarters against every concession asked of Roumania—political, economic and military.

The king's advisers were said to feel that any Roumanian attempt to give Germany the virtual monopoly of exports she seeks would disrupt the country's economy almost as badly as war itself.

Russian Aid Premised

A Roumanian military mission now in Berlin, it was reported reliably, has been told that Russia could be persuaded to sign a 25-year non-aggression pact with Roumania and that Hungary would pledge not to press territorial revision demands for 10 years.

Roumania, which already has a British-French pledge of aid against aggression, holds territory once possessed by Russia and Hungary.

For engineering such assurances, Germany, in need of Roumania's oil and grain, is reported to want: Roumania's promise to demobilize most of her 1,600,000 soldiers at once so they can return to work in fields and factories.

Acceleration of Roumanian industry and agriculture to an unprecedented degree.

A virtual German monopoly of Roumania's exports of oil, cereals and other supplies.

Seek Cabinet Member
Admission of one Iron Guard member to the Roumanian cabinet to "safeguard German interests."

Officials abruptly dismissed any possibility of installing a guardist in the cabinet. Although the government is offering amnesty to 800 Iron Guardists now in concentration camps if they pledge allegiance to the king and join the National Rebirth Front—Roumania's only political party—fugitive leaders still in Germany will be barred from the homeland.

FINLAND'S FUTURE

Finland, they say, will be lucky to escape the fate of Czechoslovakia. Weakened by pressure and robbed of its defenses, it may be given the coup de grace by Russia as soon as the Reds digest the gains of the "peace."

Aware of this danger, the Finns say they will fortify their frontier, but the fact remains they have lost the Mannerheim line. Defense pact with Sweden and Norway, also aware of the possibility of further Russian aggression, are too late to hold the Reds inside Russia.

The list of the victims of naked aggression violating national sovereignty seems destined to grow longer. It now includes, besides Finland, China, Ethiopia, Spain, Austria, Albania, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Danzig, Memel, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. All except the last four have been subdued by military force.

Hungary, Yugoslavia, Roumania, Bulgaria and Greece all are in danger. Outside Europe, on the south shore of the Mediterranean, the possessions of France are in a precarious position. Great Britain is deeply concerned about its ability to protect its possessions in the face of a continued shift of power that might give control of the Suez canal to an unfriendly power. Nothing in the far east can be called safe from the imperialism of Japan.

NO DISTINCTION

Concern lest Finland lose United States financial assistance because it no longer is fighting is being answered with renewed pleas for help. End of the war has not eased the plight of refugees, though it has removed demand for loan supplies.

Thus, the $20,000,000 loan offered by Export-Import bank to purchase things the Finns didn't need (and which would have been used to swap for things they did need) ceases to be a gesture and becomes a windfall. It is the same kind of loan Sweden is making to rehabilitate Finland.

Fortunately, there seems no danger of the government loan being questioned even though the war is over. The big leagues will go ahead with their benefit baseball game. Herbert Hoover will continue to collect money for Finnish relief. Everything will proceed as planned, despite Russia's victory.

This seems to answer the charge by skeptics that Finland's chief claim to sympathy and assistance in the United States was its opposition to Soviet Russia—that the money was not given altruistically to help a stricken people but in the hope of hurting Stalinism.

A DAY FOR ST. PATRICK

It doesn't occur to all of those who are swept into the spirit of the occasion on March 17 to wonder what's being celebrated.

St. Patrick was conspicuously successful for two accomplishments. He led Ireland from paganism to Christianity, linking it to the civilization of western Europe in the fifth century, and throughout a long lifetime he was unfailingly and tirelessly good, according to his standards.

Were it not for the soft place Americans cherish in their hearts for the Irish—and for the Irish characteristics that deserve a soft place—March 17 in the United States would be just another day. But 75 years ago when Irish-born were the largest single group in the country's foreign-born population they commanded so much attention their national saint was adopted here, as stirring a tribute to Irishism as any son of the soil could ask of the land of his second choice.

TABLE NOISE

Chance threw together two items of vital information in Thursday's paper that supplement each other. Three West Virginia university professors told the American Physiological society that noise is harmful to digestion while Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was telling a Kokomo, Ind., newspaper reporter that she never had asked her husband whether he wanted to be rejected.

For better or worse, the dining room table is a first rate forum, even if too much chatter does produce a little indigestion. After all, there are more important things than a stomach ache. At the thought of Mrs. Roosevelt keeping still as a mouse all this time and never asking over the potatoes whether it would be wise to order another year's supply of White House stationery lest she upset her husband's digestion, her countrymen are deeply impressed—deeply.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, March 17

SUNDAY'S horoscope hold testimonies of rather peculiar experiences. These may have either occult, spiritual or revolutionary angles which are difficult to interpret. Personal research or group work of a humane or reformatory social nature is indicated. Higher and subtle forces and creative urges are involved, but in all be wise with superiors and wary of deception.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of experiences out of the routine, with activities in unfamiliar avenues. New, original or unique projects may thrive, especially if in co-operation with groups or associates of high social and reformatory ideals. But be tactful with superiors and alert to subtlety, intrigue and duplicity.

A child born on this day may be blessed with original talents and faculties of an intellectual and creative expression. It may progress in some novel lines, despite opposition or lack of support.

For Monday, March 18

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a successful, progressive and pleasant day, with much stirring to promote good fortune and personal well being. The young and adventurous, with flares of genius and originality, are under excellent sway for achievement and gratification, with romance, possibly matrimony. In the forefront, Elders and feminine influence are propitious.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of promise and achievement, with personal gratifications and pleasures. There will be success through originality and ingenuity, with intellectual as well as creative inspiration, elders and superiors supporting. Romance and emotional adventures are likely, with the young having especial significance and expression. But shun extravagance and over-enthusiasm.

A child born on this day may have great versatility and creative ability of a scientific and intellectual nature. It may be kindly, humane, generous, popular and gay.

The other evening a Minnesota woman yawned so long and wide she dislocated her jaw. This is one of those rare instances in which a woman stops talking for a spell and listens to her husband.

Off hand, at any rate, we can't see any point to belonging to the Russian army. Comrade Joe Stalin kills the officers, and the Finns are mopping up with the rank and file.

"RING AROUND THE ROSIE!"

On Guard Against Mumps, Is Dr. Clendening's Warning

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE GREAT infectious disease of spring is mumps. Although it is with us always, it is particularly likely to break out in the spring months.

It has several peculiarities. It is one of the most contagious diseases that we have. Its immunity does not last forever or, in plain words, you may have several attacks during your life. The person who has mumps is contagious for longer than a person with any other contagious disease. And last, but not least, it is generally regarded as a joke when, as a matter of fact, it should be taken seriously.

It is an inflammation of glands. Of course, the glands most prominently affected are the salivary glands—the parotid glands located around the upper part of the jaw near the ear. But the reproductive glands are also affected. This is what makes it serious because the consequences may last for life.

How It Is Spread

Since the infection is localized in the parotid glands, it is natural that infection to others occurs from cough droplets and, in a household of children, from the indiscriminate common use of the same handkerchief or towel. It is almost impossible, once mumps is started in a household, to keep others from being infected.

In the army camp where I was stationed during our last war, we had wards for all the infectious diseases. Sometimes the measles wards and scarlet fever wards and chickenpox wards would be entirely empty. But we always had mumps. Whenever a new draft or troops came along, we got a couple of mumps wards ready because we knew they would soon be filled.

The first symptom is pain around the ear, so that the child is thought to have earache. But if lemon or breath, restlessness and cold feet may be some of the reasonable physical consequences of this situation that might make a person feel tired in the morning, as you say you are.

DIET FOR MONDAY

"Be gluttonous for righteousness, not meat."

Breakfast: Fruit, cereal, coffee with teaspoonful of cream and one lump of sugar.

Lunch: Oxtail soup or vegetable soup; one slice toast, un-buttered; black coffee or tea with lemon.

Dinner: Celery and olives; one cooked okra, one slice bread with butter, or bun; tablespoonful spooned, coffee with cream and one lump of sugar.

Day's calories—750

orange juice taken in the mouth causes pain. It is likely to be mumps.

Swelling Increases

The swelling increases from the third to the sixth day, at which time the face takes on the comic appearance which has made the disease be considered as a joke.

The important thing to stress in treatment is the prevention of the involvement of the reproductive glands; for this, rest in bed is imperative, several days in young children or even a week in children at the age of adolescence, from 14 to 20.

Aside from the rest in bed, the least treatment given the better. An ice pack or cold compress, or hot compress, whichever is the more comfortable, may alleviate the discomfort of the swelling of the salivary glands. In putting a cold compress, remember that the place you want to hit is up around the ears, so run the cloth from below the jaw, over the top of the head, not round the back of the neck. Do the same with the ice pack or hot water bag.

Questions and Answers

R. I. W.: "What is the effect of the excessive use of tobacco on the health of a 50-year-old man? I have been chewing tobacco for 35 years and am seldom without it during my waking hours."

Answer—I do not believe that it has ever been proved that tobacco causes any organic disease in the body but undoubtedly it has a bad functional effect on the secretions of the stomach and of the movements of the intestine and on the digestive system generally. It may also have a bad effect on the eyes if any high blood pressure is present, it raises the blood pressure and will bring on attacks of pain in the heart. From your description you use of it is undoubtedly excessive. As a further piece of advice, it is a habit that, according to my experience, is very easy to slip.

L. M. G.: "Is it injurious to a young person to sleep with someone else? I have heard that during sleep an older person will sap the young one's strength."

Answer—There is no harm in the superstitious sense of sapping the younger one's strength. That is a survival of witchcraft. Snoring, bad

Sunday school 9:45—St. Matthew 27:33-50. Charles W. Youtz, supt.

"The way of triumph may be a path that seems very indirect. There was no more complete victory than the one that was accomplished through Calvary. Yet this was the road of sacrifice. This path is not pleasant and often people flee from sacrifice as from the plague. Yet the pages of history tell of the advance of civilization through the way of self-denial and sacrifice. These are the tests that prove the earnestness and sincerity of people."

Morning worship, 11:00—Sermon, "The Kingdom of Jesus", and confirmation services.

"Palm Sunday" so named in commemoration of our Lord's triumphal entry into Jerusalem, when the people strewed branches in the way. On that day the people proclaimed Him as King of David. The kingdom of Jesus becomes more real as the years come and go. His kingdom is not one of physical force and power. It is the kingdom of love. As a king he receives the homage and obedience of more people than any other leader on earth.

Confirmation is not a sacrament, nor is it commanded in the scriptures. No new promises are made in confirmation by the catechumens. They, however, assume for themselves the promises made in baptism by their parents or sponsors. To the confirmed, the congregation accords the privileges and rights of adult members. The confirmed now assume the duty to make faithful use of the means of grace and to take an active part in the work of the church.

Maundy Thursday

"On Maundy Thursday we direct our thoughts to that upper room where Jesus, gathered with His disciples, prepared to celebrate the passover. The disciples, in spite of their constant contact with Jesus, did not realize the significance of this particular passover. Little did they dream that for centuries afterward millions of other disciples would imitate the ritual of that night. They did not know that future followers of their beloved Master would regard it even as far more important than the Israelites regarded the first passover, when the angel of death spared the homes of the children of Israel in Egypt. When Jesus said "Take, eat, this is my body. . . . Take, drink ye all of it: this cup is the new testament in My blood, which is shed for you." He was giving a visible sign that God's great plan of redemption was nearing completion. How great was the Father's love! He sent redemption into His children; He made a new covenant with them, although it cost the life-blood of His own Son. Indeed, we Christians should hallow His name in reverence. We should hallow His name by living pure and holy lives. Jesus Christ demands that of every one of His followers, who partake of His body and blood in loving remembrance of His great sacrifice."

Christian Science Society Services

"Substance" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science Society tomorrow. The Sunday service is also broadcast over station WCLE (610 k) in Cleveland the first and third Sundays of each month at 11 a. m.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years will be held at 9:30 a. m. A mid-week service is held at the church the first Wednesday in each month at 8 p. m.

The Golden Text is: "Holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come" (Revelation 4-8)

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "But as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation. . . . Because it is written, Be ye holy; for I am holy" I Peter 1: 15, 16.

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit is the only substance, and consciousness recognized by divine Science. . . . That matter is substantial or has life and sensation, is one of the false beliefs of mortals, and exists only in a superstitious mortal consciousness."

This society maintains a reading room at 138 S. Broadway where the Bible and all Christian Science authorized literature may be read or borrowed. The room is open from 1:30 to 4 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday and from 7 to 9 p. m. on Saturday.

The public is invited to attend all services and to visit the reading room.

Theatre Attractions

Spencer Tracy and Hedy Lamarr in a scene from "I Take This Woman", at the State Sunday through Tuesday.

Hedy Lamarr and Spencer Tracy make the newest romantic team on the screen, appearing together for the first time in "I Take This Woman" at the State Sunday through Tuesday.

The story of a brilliant young doctor who marries a mysterious beauty in love with another man marks a radical departure from Tracy's recent "Northwest Passage" and "Gone With the Wind." A modern role and a romantic role, this time, it is his opportunity to prove that besides one of the screen's finest actors, of historical and biographical roles, he is also able to hold his own in a romantic, modern part.

Others in the excellent supporting cast are Verree Teasdale, Kent Taylor, Laraine Day, Mona Barrie, Jack Carson, Marjorie Main, George E. Stone and Duane Francis. International known pianist whose first dramatic role was as Ilona Massey's brother in "Balalaika."

Robinson Bill Booked

Wednesday and Thursday the State will present "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet," starring Edward G. Robinson in the role of the famous German scientist who discovered the treatment for syphilis. One of the most unusual pictures ever filmed, since it is the first time the screen has approved the treatment of the subject, it is also one of the finest, being called a leading contender for the Academy award this early in the day.

Ruth Gordon, Otto Kruger, Donald Crisp, Maria Ouspenskaya, Donald Meek, Henry O'Neill and Albert Basserman, the foremost actor of Germany who is now an exile from his native land and in the eighties, scores one of the most brilliant triumphs the dramatic art has known.

The feature the last two days of the week, starting Friday, is Kipling's famous story, "The Light That Failed," starring Ronald Colman in the role of the artist who paints his masterpiece with the last remnants of his failing sight. Ida Lupino, Muriel Angelus, Walter Huston and Dudley Digges are seen in the supporting cast.

Concluding tonight at the State is Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen," starring Jackie Cooper with Betty Field.

At The Grand

A double bill of exceptional merit will be seen at the Grand Sunday, including "Blondie On a Budget" with Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake and Larry Simms, and Rita Hayworth as the siren who keeps the Bumsteads' minds off their budget; and "The Lone Wolf Strikes" with Warren William and Joan Perry.

At the Grand Wednesday only are "Village Barn Dance" with a number of radio personalities including Lulu Belle and Scotty, Don Wilson, Richard Cromwell and Doris Day; "Kid Nightingale" with John Payne and Jane Wyman.

Concluding there tonight is "West of Carson City" with Johnny Mack Brown.

"SELF MADE GIRL" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

SYNOPSIS

Linda Perry, youngest of the five poverty-stricken Perry's lives with her family in a small frame house in the country near Philadelphia. She has no idea of social distinctions and the heartaches that will inevitably be hers when she and her socially prominent friends grow up. The first blow falls when ambitious Mrs. Wagner breaks up the friendship between her daughter, Ruth and Linda. Then Linda's best friend, Constance Scott, is sent away to private school. At fifteen, in the background of school affairs, Linda knows loneliness for the first time. But Constance is loyal. During summer vacation the two attend a county club dance with Glenn and Everett McAllister. Linda adores Glenn from the first. After a wonderful summer together Glenn returns to school and Constance goes to France with her mother. It is rumored that the Scotts are separating. To Linda, nothing matters except Glenn's infrequent letters. Then the Perry's real misfortunes begin. The grandmother dies. Mrs. Perry breaks her hip and Linda leaves school to nurse her. Mr. Perry is killed in an explosion at the mill. Sick with worry and dizziness, Linda's only relaxation is her friendship with George Cooke, who wants to marry her. Glenn McAllister has not returned. Linda realizes she may never see him again. So following her mother's death she becomes engaged to George and goes to live with her sister's family. But their cramped living conditions and the knowledge that her brother-in-law resents her presence makes life miserable for Linda. One night, she confides in her sister that she cannot go through with her marriage to George. Linda plans to go to New York and work.

CHAPTER XI

She knew that she didn't want to go—not really. Not to the extent of actually packing up her belongings and going out of the house in the first morning light, a one. She had never been completely on her own, and the thought of the independence about which she had toiled last night, was terrifying now.

But she couldn't stay on, after she'd told Claude she was going.

Will others did it. Others went out alone and made their way. And if they did, she could. If she'd only had a little more education, if only she knew how to do SOMETHING.

But she had more money.

When she had counted her carefully hidden hoard—thirty-eight dollars and sixty-seven cents—she felt better. That was a lot. Enough to keep her quiet a while.

Afterwards, when she thought back on it, she wondered how she could have been so silly so naive, even at 18! What a start she had, leaving school at 16, and then going to New York two years later, with no job or prospects and only thirty-eight dollars in her purse!

She didn't like to think about those first weeks and months alone. The dances she took.

But what did she know? And what's that Grandma Polonsky used to say about the Lord looking out for children and fools. Certainly there was some truth in it.

But that didn't excuse Claude for sleeping like a log all night, while she tiptoed over the house packing her things into her two heavy suitcases, writing crazy farewell notes, and hoping against hope that somebody would wake up and make her go back to bed where she belonged.

She had been exhilarated, she remembered, as she snapped the suitcases shut and put on her hat and coat knowing that she was really going through with it. She wasn't going to be a weakling and turn back. But gone out in the first gray December light, into a damp, cold wind that scattered newspapers before her, it was terrifying. The heavy suitcases bumped her legs, their handles bit into her chilled, aching hands.

What a start! What a way to let a child go away!

The train from Broad street station in Philadelphia to Pennsylvania Station in New York was the longest she'd ever taken. How exciting it was, and how she regretted having had coffee and doughnuts at the station, instead of waiting and having it in the diner of the train.

She beamed at Linda, "Now what can I do for you?"

But when they pulled into Pennsylvania station and everyone crowded forward, anxious to be on his way, her heart sank. She was the only one who didn't know where she was going, or why. She was the only one without a home, and a job, and friends. She would have given almost anything in the world to be back again with Claude and Chester—and yes—with Junior.

At least, she knew enough to check her bags, and take a little time to look the situation over. It was a sunny day, not too cold, and after the suitcases were checked and she was no longer burdened with them, she actually felt free and thrilled.

At noon, after walking miles, and riding miles on Fifth Avenue buses, first one way then the other, she went into a restaurant and felt a New Yorker already.

All around her were girls and busier men, glibly talking, and she gobbled hers too, and thought she'd soon be working. The shops were so tempting—spring things already! Resort clothes, cruise clothes, clothes for the south! What fun it would be to work in one of the stores. Pulling her hat sideways, at what she felt was a jaunty angle, she plunged into a store, went self-consciously from counter to counter, floor to floor.

"No, thank you, I'm just looking—"

At the big department stores, it was just the same. She wanted to ask where to put in her application for a job but she never got the courage.

Tomorrow, she thought. Tomorrow I'll do it systematically. It's too late now, anyway.

It was 5 o'clock and she was dead on her feet. She thought, I'll get something to eat, and then I'll go back to the station and get my bags, and I'll go to the Y and look at all the papers, and in the morning I'll really make the rounds.

On West Fifty-fifth not far from Fifth Avenue she found Tanya's Tea Room, "Dinner from Thirty-five Cents." It was in the basement of an old house and there were two glib, wooden, dancing figures on either side of the red painted basement door and the small barred windows were curtained in sky-blue silk. It sounded cheap and looked Bohemian and exciting, so she went in.

She'd have left again, in a moment, for there wasn't a soul in the place, but just as she was backing toward the door, embarrassed because she was too early, a big rosy girl in a pale blue smock stenciled in double-eagles and stiff, daisy-like flowers in red and black and white, came out from the kitchen and shouted, "Wait, I'm coming!"

Towering a head above Linda, she beamed down upon her jovially.

"Now, what can I do for you?"

"Why, I thought—"

Linda felt her face reddening. "That is, the sign said—dinner—"

"Dinner!" the big girl laughed. "Why, of course! You don't mind waiting a little, do you? Are you in a hurry?"

No, Linda couldn't say that she was in a hurry, exactly.

So she waited, and that was how she got to know Tanya (born Gladys Schmidt), and got her first job.

It was all very simple, and surprising. Tanya, who came from California, had inherited the tea-room from one Dora Bush who inherited it from two old maid sisters who left it to Dora when they came into some money. The old maid sisters had known all about cooking and would have done very well if they hadn't served so many free meals to people like Dora, who meant well, but didn't pay very well.

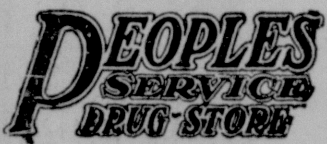

Finally Dora had gone to work for them, and had persuaded a Russian boy friend to help her decorate it. They'd had a good time doing it, and the effect was pleasing and not too crude.

Just about the time it was all decorated, in the Russian manner, the sisters came into their money and presented Dora with the place, to do with it as she pleased. Dora came for Gladys, who had always wanted to run a tea-room.

And there they were! Dora, who kept the books when she felt like it, Gladys (who called herself Tanya Every funeral director speaks of "service" as an important reason why you should call him, rather than some other funeral director in that community.

It seems to me that the word service means little or nothing; it is the KIND of service rendered that matters. If you feel as I do about this, you may wish to make inquiries about the Stark Memorial, here in Salem. I believe you will find it to be outstanding in every respect, and most moderately priced.

Every inch a champion, English and American Champion Showman of Shotton, a five-year-old English springer spaniel, is winner of "best of show" honors at a Cleveland dog show. The dog, commonly called Ben, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Quay of Hunting Valley, suburban Cleveland.

Nazi Ship Scuttled in Pan-American Zone

The German motorship Hannover

Here's the German motorship Hannover, which was scuttled near Puerto Rico, in the strategic heart of the Pan-American neutrality zone, as a British cruiser approached. Fate of 57 crew members and the captain was uncertain following the landing of but 37 of the ship's 94 crew members at Higney, Dominican Republic. The ship was loaded with ore and lumber and had sailed from the West Indies.

Student Dies

Hubert L. Spake, Jr.

Solon's Daughters Dine Out

Girl Slain

I. I. N. Phonophoto Elaine Rossi

Elaine Rossi, 23, blonde beauty, was found hacked to death with a hatchet in a New York apartment. Police are holding Louis Grondine, a male nurse who surrendered and told of a quarrel with the girl, admitting he killed her in self-defense.

Taking a gentle dig at British press censorship, these London showgirls pose with their "censorship costumes." The British censor, it seems, passed this.

Under Fire?

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain faces attacks in Parliament for the government's attitude in the Finnish case. Now that the Finns have been granted peace, at Russia's terms, parliamentary observers say that Chamberlain's government might be taken to task in a very severe fashion. Chamberlain is shown in a pensive mood as he attended a recent meeting.

Eagles Take Over Second Place On Final Night Of Tournament 5-Man Event

F. O. E. Road Team Hits 2,866 To Finish As Runner-Up to News In Bowling Meet; 3 Other Teams Break Into Prize List

A 2,899 score posted on the opening shift held up through four nights of heavy firing to give the Salem News the five-man championship of the fifth annual City Handicap Tenpin tournament today.

The five-man competition came to a close at the Grate Recreation alleys last night with four teams battling their way into the prize list, but leaving the News' score at the top of the heap.

The News turned in its championship score last Tuesday on the first night of the tournament, combining a 159-pin handicap with a 2,740 count in actual pins.

Eagles Place Second
The closest approach to the News' top-ranking score was made last night when the Salem Eagles road team fired a 2,866 score to take over second place. The Eagles lacked a 129-pin handicap onto a 2,737 count in actual pins.

Leadoff man Bill Finley paced the Eagles into second position, hammering out a 583 series on games of 176, 212 and 195. Mike Hutter was second high with a 579 series, including a 236 single game; Bob Tubbs hit 578, Ralph Gregg 533 and Tom Reese 464.

The Eagles started off with a 919 game, jumped to 972 in the second heat and finished with 975 to take second place away from the late Cape Reddons who had held the runner-up position since the first night with a 2,836 score.

Three other teams broke into the prize list on the final night along with the Eagles.

ROUND ROBINS NEARING CLOSE IN CAGE LOOPS

Three Teams Remain In Class B League Race

Round Robin tournaments in two city basketball leagues neared their finish today with three teams remaining in the Class B loop race and only two teams left in the Church league.

The Carroll Cadets, Trades Class and Rudibaugh's Sohloans remain to battle it out for the Class B championship. The Trades Class and Rudibaugh's, boasting like records of five wins and two defeats, will meet at 7 p. m. Monday to determine who will play the Cadets for the round robin title.

The Sohloans suffered their second defeat of the round robin event at the Memorial building last night, losing to the Trades Class, 33 to 28. Bonsall, A. Juhn and Shafer led the Trades Class to victory, while Nedelka starred for the Sohloans.

Two Teams Eliminated
The Presbyterians and St. Paul's were eliminated from the Church league round robin tournament as the Presby's lost to the unbeaten Methodists, 33 to 22, and St. Paul's fell before the Episcopalians, 27 to 21.

Pridon and Hansell paced the Methodists to their fifth straight win of the round robin, while Martinelli and McGhee shared honors in leading the Episcopalians to their fourth win of the tournament.

The Methodists and Episcopalians were scheduled to meet at 1 p. m. today in a game which may decide the Church league's round robin championship. The Methodists can clinch the title by winning the game.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, March 16.—The books have made Bobby Jones a 25-1 shot in the Augusta Masters' tournament. Buddy Eyer, the fighter, weighs 135 pounds at birth and has been growing ever since. Mike Tresh, White Sox catcher, has succumbed to the California weather and will buy a home and move his family out there. Welby Van Horn, who may be on top of the tennis heap before you know it, will confide in a magazine piece soon that he hates to watch tennis. "Too dull and uninteresting," he says. Valentin Campolo may not be the best heavyweight in the world, but he's always trying. He threw his shoulder out of joint hopping a sparring partner yesterday.

Today's Guest Star

Dan Desmond, Sioux City (Ia) Journal: "Johnny Paycheck is going to train for Joe Louis behind locked gates. And we out here in the hinterland know the terrible secret he's trying to hide."

The Texas Christian football team plans to fly to and from Chapel Hill for the North Carolina U. game next fall. President Ford Frick has promised Leon Warneke a chance to umpire in the National league when his pitching days are over. Johnny Bulla, the golf pro and Sam Snead, the same, are thinking of buying a plane to cover the winter circuit by air next season. Jimmy Fox says the Giants look awfully small to him. And if the dope the Boston scribes are getting is true, Horace Stoneham and Bill Terry don't expect to see another hurler flying in the Polo Grounds breeze for another four seasons.

Ready To Go

The U. of Arkansas is all set for the next basketball season. The Kins may have departed, but the captains haven't. The coach can put on the floor as starters

Three Undefeated Teams Continue In Running In Ohio's Class A Tourney

Canton McKinley and Massillon To Clash In Semi-Finals Today; Canfield Reaches Semi-Final In Class B Tournament

COLUMBUS, March 16.—They're going to name Ohio's 1940 High school basketball champions tonight at the state fairgrounds Coliseum, and it's a "lead pipe cinch," the two teams that take the titles will be worthy of the laurels.

With the semi-finals to be run off this afternoon, eight teams were still in there battling, and those squads had a grand record for the year of 184 victories and 14 defeats. Ten of the defeats were chalked up against two of the semi-finalists, for three are unbeaten, two have dropped but one game, and another has lost but a pair.

AMERICAN LOOP STARS FAVORED TO SPANK NATS

Long-Suffering National Leaguers Due For Another Trimming

By GAYLE TABLOT

TAMPA, Fla., March 16.—Barring a reprieve because of rain or other fortuitous circumstances, the long-suffering National leaguers are due to take another lambasting from their American league tormentors in tomorrow's all-star baseball game for the Finnish relief fund.

The American league has summoned perhaps the most wicked line-up it ever has thrown into an all-star contest. The Nationals look weaker than in any previous game.

With five New York Yankees and three Boston Red Sox as starters, Manager Joe McCarthy has a stronger American lineup than ever before because of the addition of two slugging sophomores, Charley Keller from the Yankees and Ted Williams of Boston. Probably it is necessary to say no more than that Bill Dickey is batting eighth for the first time in his life.

Walters May Start

Manager Bill McKee of the Nationals won't have a really high class left-hander available for duty. The most likely National starter is Bucky Walters of Cincinnati.

At least, the Nationals will not have to look at Red Ruffing and probably Bob Grove. But that is slight comfort with men like Bob Feller, Buck Newsum, Dutch Leonard, Tom Bridges and Vernon Gomez ready to fire at them.

Following are the starting line-ups:

AMERICAN LEAGUE—Joe Gordon, Yankees; 2b, Red Rolfe, Yankees; 3b, Charlie Keller, Yankees; 1b, Jimmie Fox, Red Sox; 1b, Ted Williams, Red Sox; rf, Joe Cronin, Red Sox; ss, Billy Dickey, Yankees, c.

NATIONAL LEAGUE—Morrie Aronovitch, Philadelphia; 1b, Cookie Lavagetto, Brooklyn; 3b, Mel Ott, Giants; rf, Johnny Mize, Cardinals; 1b, Ernie Lombardi, Reds; c, Frank Demaree, Giants; cf, Tony Cuccinello, Bees; 2b, Bill Jurges, Giants, ss.

AMERICAN LEAGUE PITCHERS—Bob Feller, Cleveland; Buck Newsum, Detroit; Emil Leonard, Washington; Tom Bridges, Detroit; Vernon Gomez, Yankees; and Bob Grove, Boston.

CONCERNING BUTTONS — As a matter of information to local housewives, certain facts about buttons should be considered. Pearl Buttons, made from mussel shell, have proved their superiority over every other type of button. No other button combines the durability, luster and beauty of Pearls. It is important, therefore, that you examine carefully the buttons on wash garments you buy. If they are Pearl Buttons you can be certain of the service they will render, and you can be assured that their presence is a sign of quality in the garment itself. See that all wash garments you purchase have Pearl Buttons.
